MOTHER KILLED BY SHOCK

Mrs. John Seeley Collapses When Told of Death of Child in Street Car Accident—Funerals Today.

The shock of hearing of her 8-year-old daughter's death, when the child was killed in a street car accident caused the death yesterday of Mrs. John Seeley of Lincoln, Neb., a sister of Mrs. George Aley of Maryville.

When the news was first received by Mrs. Aley it was stated that both mother and child were killed. Later messages gave the details of the double deaths.

Mrs. Seeley had been in poor health for some time and collapsed on hearing of her daughter's death. She passed away about three hours later without regaining consciousness. The Seeley family formerly lived at Quitman. The funeral services for mother and child were held this afternoon at Lincoln.

On account of sickness in the family Mrs. Aley was unable to attend the funeral. Several relatives from Quitman attended.

E. H. Hutchison, formerly of Williamson, Ga., but later of Camden Point, Mo., has accepted the pastorate of the Pickering Christian church, and with his wife and little son will move to that place not later than September 1.

Elder Hutchison is a graduate of Johnson Bible college, Kimberlin Heights, Tenn., where he spent five years. He also holds an A. B. degree from Canton Christian university at Canton, Mo., where he spent three years.

He has had six years experience in pulpit work, resigning the pastorate at Long Branch, Amazonia and Faucett to accept the Pickering work.

He has five years experience in the school room, having spent the last three years as instructor in mathematics in the Missouri Christian college at Camden Point.

Mrs. Hutchison has also had a successful career as teacher, having taught seven years.

The Dictagraph of Camden Point, in a recent issue, had this to say of him:

"Mr. Hutchison has been very successful in his work as pastor of Long Branch, Amazonia and Faucett. He is a conscientious pastor and a good citizen and can be heartily recommended to the people of Pickering and vicinity."

MAY BE MEMBERS OF GANG

Edward Graves, Recently Arrested on Charge of Stealing Car, May Be Regular Auto Thief.

Edward Graves, living near Elmo, who was recently apprehended by Sheriff Ed Wallace on a charge of stealing a Ford auto from Abraham Miller, a mail carrier of Bedford, Ia., is believed to be a member of a gang of auto thieves who have stolen thousands of dollars worth of cars in Missouri and Iowa.

Graves was arrested Sunday morning, August 7, and brought to Maryville, where he was held until the following Thursday awaiting requisition papers. He was then taken to Bedford, where he was given a hearing this afternoon and released on $1,500 bond.

According to Sheriff Griffin of Polk county, Iowa, who thinks he has uncovered the gang of thieves, a part of them are members of the old Mabray swindle gang who operated a fake race horse swindle several years ago.

Three members of the supposed gang are now under arrest.

BANK READY SOON

ROOF ON FARMERS TRUST BUILDING STARTED TODAY.

TO MOVE IN JANUARY 1

Not One Accident and Only Slight Delay Has Been Record of Workers Since April.

On New Year's day the Farmers Trust company expects to give the "glad hand" to all their patrons and friends in their new home, on which the work is progressing rapidly.

Since the building was started in April there was no delay of any moment, and not the slightest mishap to deter the workmen. A cessation of a week was made during June, because the tenant in the building adjoining was unable to move sooner than he did. This, with a few days delay of material, has occasioned the only interruptions in its progress, which is an unusual bit of good luck for such a large constructive work.

Workmen began this morning laying the steel trusses for the roof. The laying of the stone work is entirely finished with the exception of the two ends of the cornice, which did not measure true and new ones have been ordered.

Corners Show Firm's Insignia.

These corner sare two perfect pieces of decoration which add much to the beauty of the front. Each is embellished with a raised insignia of the Farmers Trust company, a bunch of ears of corn, surrounded by a laurel wreath.

Surmounting the top are three decorative pieces, called by the architect the tri-fix and anti-fixes, which is perfectly intelligible to the said architect but not to the curbstone audience which daily watches the work on the building.

The beauty of these various parts is, however, very noticeable to any kind of an audience. These pieces are graven in a Greek honeysuckle design, but the Grecian honeysuckle would never recognize a sister flower of the American variety.

Contains 600 Tone Granite.

There are six hundred tons of granite stone in the building. The roof is a 16-ounce copper plate laid on concrete slabs. The interior is to be finished in Italian marble and bronze, and this will be commenced as soon as the roof is completed, which will take about three weeks.

When the joinings of the stone work are finished the entire front will be gone over until it is as smooth and polished as a piece of cut glass.

Beauty of Architecture Shown.

Now that the building is nearing outside completion, the grace and beauty of the Doric-Greek architecture which it follows is apparent to everyone. A talk with M. Mayfield, the supervising architect, will bring to the notice of the outsider some of the rare symmetry and beauty of the Greek builders' ideas, which have never yet been equalled by modern architectural plans.

The style and plan of architecture employed on the Farmers Trust company building is one largely used for the finer structures all over the world.

The architects are Wight & Wight of Kansas City, a firm of inter-national reputation.

Bystanders Enjoy "Looking On."

The work has been a constant source of interest to passers by. This morning while the heavy steel girders for the roof were being hauled up, bystanders really, not figuratively, held their breath for fear the handsome stone wall in front of which the trusses dangled, would be marred. But they swung out as easily as a silk scarf in a summer zephyr.

One bystander explained the town attitude this morning in a trite remark when he said: "Won't this town have to hump to keep up with the Farmers Trust when that place is done."

CUMMINGS FUNERAL

SERVICES FOR SUICIDE WILL BE HELD TOMORROW.

NOTE IS KEPT A SECRET

Dead Man Had Been Despondent For Several Days—In Best of Spirits Morning of Tragedy.

The funeral of C. W. Cummings, section foreman, who shot himself through the heart with a rifle yesterday morning at the Burlington bridge, near Hopkins, will be held at Mr. Cummings' home in Hopkins at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Because of the absence of Dr. Will Wallis, county coroner, no inquest will be held, the case being obviously one of suicide.

Mr. Cummings was apparently in good spirits the morning of the tragedy, although he had been despondent for some days previous, according to his friends. When he left home yesterday morning he took his rifle with him. As he passe dthrough town some of his friends joked with him, asking him if he had a hunter's license, etc. H laughingly replied that he was only going to kill rats. Arriving at the station he got on his push car and went up the track about a half mile from the station. A half hour later, when he did not return, his workmen became uneasy and went in search of him. They found him near the railroad bridge, his rifle beside him and a bullet hole in his breast.

A search through his pockets revealed his watch, around which was wrapped a note, scarcely decipherable, and these were in turn wrapped in a white and red handkerchief. The note was given to his present wife, and it is her wish that the contents be kept from the public.

Mr. Cummings' second marriage took place a little over a month ago, and to all appearances he was happy with the exception of the last few days. His first wife and small son are in Hopkins at present.

Paris, Aug. 15.—The Italian dreadnaught "Leonardo Davinci" was blown up in Tarante harbor today. The crew of 300 were lost, according to official dispatches received here today. The explosion followed an outbreak of the fire on board. The crew undertook to flood the magazine and beach the dreadnaught, but the explosion occurred before shallow water could be reached. It is believed that it can be refloated after repairs are made. This dreadnaught displaced 2,400 tons.

Goes to the House to Sell Tea and Coffee—All He Gets is Pleasant "Good Day."

A solicitor for an out-of-town tea and coffee concern which sells direct to the consumer, called recently at one of Maryville's representative homes. The lady of the house answered his ring, and the following conversation ensued?

Madam, do you buy your tea and coffee from the local merchants?

I do.

Are you satisfied with the goods you are getting?

I certainly am.

Well, madam, I should like to explain to you the marvelous selling plan of the ——— company. Our system eliminates the middleman's profit, and also does away with a great deal of unnecessary overhead expense, such as rent, clerk's wages, advertising, etc. As a result we can sell you a better class of goods at a lower price than any merchant in Maryville. You possibly may not know it, madam, but your local merchants are charging you entirely too much for the goods you buy. Now, I would like to have you give me a trial for——

Just a minute, please; let me ask you a few questions:

Do you maintain a business establishment in Maryville?

No, we ship our goods direct from the factory.

Do you pay any taxes in Maryville or Nodaway county?

No.

Do you pay anything toward the maintenance of the Maryville schools?

No.

Have you ever paid anything toward the expense of any of Maryville's paving, white way lighting system, or other public improvements?

No.

Do you belong to the Commercial club?

Do you belong to any of Maryville's churches?

No.

Have you ever subscribed anything toward the corn show, poultry show, or similar enterprise?

No.

Have you ever subscribed anything for the support of the Maryville band?

No.

Do you pay anything toward the street flusher service?

Do you contribute anything toward the Maryville welfare board?

No.

What do you do with the money you receive from the goods sold here?

I am required to send it to our home office.

Do you ever spend any money in Maryville?

Well, yes. I buy money orders at the Maryville postoffice.

Let me tell you something. I prefer to trade with our local merchants. I have full confidence in their ability and inclination to sell me goods at a

Germans Lose Ground.

London, Aug. 15.—Nearly all the trenches captured by the Germans northwest of Pozieres Sunday have been recaptured by the British, the war office announced today. Despite the deep mud resulting from a heavy rain Monday there was furious fighting along the western slopes of the ridge north of Pozieres last night. A strong attack was delivered by the British. After the German positions had been subjected to a powerful bombardment the Germans resisted desperately.

RAILWAY MANGERS DISCUS 8-HOUR DAY

Employers Cite Figures to Show That Short Working Time Cannot Be Granted.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Further progress in the effort to effect a reconciliation between the railroad heads and their employes was made by the president this morning, but it will be late today at least before it will be made have ended the danger of a nation-wide strike.

For an hour and forty minutes this morning the president and the committee of railroad managers discussed the demands of the brotherhoods as to whether the eight-hour day demand would be granted. The railway managers cited figures which they claimed would make it impossible to grant the eight-hour day on the terms demanded by the men. They offered a counter proposition which would recognize the essential nature of a shorter working day ,but they insisted that if it was granted a neutral commission should be named to lay down the law as to how an effective signal might be made The railway managers left their counter proposal in the hands of the president to discuss with the brotherhood representatives until they go to the White House at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Meantime the situation is continuing practically unchanged.

The late rains have made the river rise and it would be difficult to procure the fish for the occasion. Moreover, the roads are not in a condition to warrant a crowd large enough to make this celebration the best of the year in Maryville.

AFTER A NEW STATE CHARTER.

An Association is Working for a Convention to Frame Constitution.

Missouri, with a constitution adopted in 1875, is riding in an ox cart. What the state needs is a motor car. That was the explanation by Walter Williams, dean of the school of journalism of the University of Missouri, of the work of the New Constitution association, former at Sedalia in May. The executive committee of the association met in Kansas City Monday. Dean Williams is its chairman.

"We want the next legislature to make a call for a convention to adopt a new constitution," he said. "The present one is so out of date the state cannot progress and may retrogress in many things. Further educational development is impossible; the system of taxation is antiquated and unjust; our court organization and legal procedure is such that justice is defeated largely; cities and towns of the state need home rule and more latitude to undertake public improvements, and there should be some recognition of the need of good roads in the state constitution. All these things may be remedied, I might even say must be remedied, without much delay."

Eleven Missouri associations, including those of the bankers, physicians, lawyers and newspaper men, were instrumental in forming the New Constitution association. The members of the committee are Dean Williams, W. P. Evans of St. Louis, former state superintendent of schools; Dr. W. S. Dearmont of Cape Girardeau, president of the state normal school there; Dr. W. H. Black of Marshall, president of Missouri Valley college, and S. E. Davis of the Maryville Normal school.

SEE AMERICA FIRST

YELLOWSTONE PARK OFFERS THRILLS FOR TRAVELERS.

SURPRISES ARE MANY

Dedicated in 1872—Government Prevents Destruction of Curiosities and Killing of Game.

"See America First."

Has the migratory microbe assailed you, which grips each and every one in the spring of the year? If you are impelled to travel, to change environments even for a little while, don't wait for "the little man from Egypt" to whisper foreign notions in your ear. Remain where the protecting arm of Uncle Sam encircles you and the American flag is always in sight. Stay where the only passports required are the green and yellow banknotes which can be counted and interpreted by everyone you meet, where every person speaks your own language. "See America First" should be your watchword.

"Where would be the logical place for me to first visit?" you ask. Have you been to Yellowstone National Park? If your reply comes in the negative, your inquiry can be answered in one brief word, "Yellowstone." This park contains 3,300 square miles. It is 55 miles wide and 65 long and contains 1,000 boiling springs and 100 geysers. It was ceded to the United States by France in 1803 in the Louisiana Purchase and was at that time an unknown asset.

The first white man to locate this land of wonders was John Colter, a member of the Lewis and Clark party, which crossed the Rocky Mountains on the way to the Pacific Ocean in 1805. On the return trip of Lewis and Clark, Colter, with two companions, accompanied by a Shoshone chief, left the expedition on a touring exploration, prospecting and trapping. They followed the course of the Madison river, which landed them in the Yellowstone Park in 1807. Colter was the first white man who ever saw the geysers in action. The party entered the park at a point now known as Evergreen Grove, where, in 1823, Jim Bridges, a hunter and trapper, scout and guide, built his cabin on the bank of the Madison river and was the only white resident of the park for many years. It was Bridges who in 1847 piloted the Mormons from Nauvoo, Ill., to the Utah Valley, where the settled and biult Salt Lake City.

Medicine Men's Sanctuary.

Yellowstone Park was the section of the wild West where the medicine men led their warriors before starting upon the warpath or chase. At the obsidian cliffs arrow heads were fashioned by heating of the stone and dropping of water upon the heated rock. This would chip it and shape the arrow head. Incantations, ceremonies and dances were carried on during the time the work continued. The arrows were considered the most potent in war or on the chase. During the pilgrimage to the land of wonders the sick, lame and blind would be brought from the Indian villages, fires would be kindled, concoctions and medicine brewed from the waters of the bubbling springs and the evil spirits chased from the bodies of the braves. In this, the land of enchanted wonders, decoctions would be prepared, pigments for war paint secured and sacrifices made. Unless accompanied by the medicine man, no Indian would take a chance on the evil spirits. It was an unheard-of event for the nomads of the Northwest to venture to the verge of this demon-haunted fastness. The golden gate was the limit, and beyond that portal was a realm of mysterious and infernal portent to them.

For a complete understanding and appreciation of Yellowstone Park, many visits would be necessary. It is the land of enchantment, nestling among the mountains. Its valleys are freighted with surprises and marvels, so closely connected that one travels through the park in wonder and rhapsody. At every turn you are wishing for those at home, at the same time packing your mental storehouse with facts and observations. There is a continuous feeling of regret that the scope of written or spoken language one's imagination or the pigments, in a feeble way only depict the marvels of Yellowstone National Park.

Park Dedicated to Public in 1872.

A visit to this wonderland will convert the most retiring and diffident persons into talking whirlwinds. The knowledge acquired will place them at ease in any company. They will never thereafter be at a loss for something interesting to talk about. As an educator of young and old, from any walk of life, the Yellowstone is in a class by itself. It was dedicated to the public as a national park in 1872 and surveyed and platted in 1881. The dedication prevents destruction of curiosities, cutting of the forest, killing of the game, or private ownership.

While the war dogs are growling and snarling across the sea, we are living in a country blessed with peace, contentment and prosperity. Now is the time to "see America first," to visit, enjoy and pass judgment upon your own landed estate. The park belongs to you. Your government has improved conditions for travel and made it possible for you to visit and enjoy your own. There you have virgin forests, wooded wilderness, canyons, lakes, geysers, boiling rivers, pigments bubbling from the formation and terraces. There you find a seething, turbulent mass of mud, which is cast about in the Devil's Punchbowl or Cauldron. You have a never-ceasing, endless, awe-inspiring, nature-worshiping panorama of spectacles, magnificent or monstrous. Why not visit and enjoy this ideal school of nature study?

Traveling as my "side kick" on a through Union Pacific train from Chicago to Ogden, was Don Morrison of St. Paul, known to the trapshooting fraternity as one of the best tar hawk crushers in the world. We proceeded over the same great system to Yellowstone Park. On our way west we had cemented a friendship with Professor and Mrs. Condon of Helena, Mont., in conjunction with seven other good Indians. We had as a Jehu a typical old "sour-dough," whose early education had been acquired swinging a 20-mule team over the mountains with a "jerk string." He was freighted with park lore, which he disseminated without stint.

While there was an uninterrupted succession of wonders and marvels as we journeyed through the park, Old Faithful Geyser, in conjunction with the canyon and falls of the Yellowstone, especially impressed me. Old Faithful spouts every sixty-seven minutes. It is a veritable water volcano, sending 250,000 gallons of scalding, steaming water 150 feet in the air. The water is held there three minutes, then slowly sinks back into the bowels of the earth.

Grand Canyon is Awe-Inspiring.

The Grand Canyon and Falls of the Yellowstone are twin wonders in wonderland. "Inspiration Point," extending to the center of the canyon, where you look down upon the Yellowstone river. A waterfall twice as high as Niagara rushes from the virgin forest pouring down to be lost in the canyon below. The canyon has been decorated by pigments of every hue, and Nature, the greatest artist, has in every manner blended colors until you have a veritable kaleidoscope. It is a spectacle upon which you gaze in silence.

To pass up our trip through the park without describing it for those who at all times are listening to the call of the wild would be akin to high treason. The park is the Mecca of wild game. Protected by the strong arm of the law, which spells Uncle Sam's soldiers, game has increased very rapidly. The animals have taught each other how to locate the border lines of the park, hence very few are killed across the line. Fear is an unknown quantity and all men look alike to them. Near the different hotels bears have congregated, depending upon the kitchens for their regular meals. They watch for the garbage as it leaves the hotel, and frequently pull the barrels from the wagons. The streams are teeming with fish. Bird life is in every direction. Buffalo are there in numbers, increasing gradually. There always is an opportunity fo a snapshot with a camera. Elk, deer, antelope, moose and goats are seen in abundance almost every trip. The park is a natural sanctuary for game of this continent, which is rapidly propagating under government protection.

It was with a feeling of deep regret that "Don" Morrison and I quit the land of wonder.—Reprint from Chicago Examiner, May 28, 1916.

PEACE.

Peace is not for cowards. It calls for the highest form of courage. It demands moral stamina, which is more rare than physical bravery.

It calls for the courage of a man, not that of a wolf. It means putting national justice above national pride. It means the exaltation of self-restraint above the passion of vengeance.

It scorns race-hate, and proclaims, "Above all nations is humanity." Its patriotism is a ministry to the world, and not a menace.

It means the higher manliness of the gentleman, and not the cheaper manliness of the bully. It often leads to abuse, contempt, martyrdom. It led the Prince of Peace there.

Peace is the ally of wisdom, generous patience, far-sight, human consideration for humble lives. War is the ally of egotism, anger, cruelty, vainglory.

Peace is the unshakable courage of sanity; war is the red, blind courage of madness.

The kings of earth are men of war; the King of Kings, when He sent His cohort of angels to earth, gave them no war-cry but "Peace on earth, goodwill toward men!"—Dr. Frank Crane, in Pictorial Review, September, 1916.

From May 1 to July 15 last year—when saloons existed in Colorado—the state penitentiary received 137 prisoners.

From May 1 to July 14 this year—under prohibition—the penitentiary received 44 prisoners.

During the first six months of 1915 there were twenty-three prisoners who violated their paroles. During the first six months of this year, since the saloons were closed, only eight prisoners have violated their paroles.

It is not an over-statement to say that only a comparatively small part of the buildings at the institution soon will be in use as a prison.

Hopkins Man Stabbed in St. Joe.

Fay Morehouse, 26 years old, was stabbed in the abdomen at Main and Felix streets late Saturday night by an unknown man, presumably drunk, who disappeared before Dr. J. L. Cox, police surgeon, arrived. At St. Joseph's hospital, where Moorhouse was taken, it was said the wound was trivial, and yesterday he was able to go to Hopkins, Mo., his home. Moorhouse told the police he as walking alone when his assailant jumped at him from the street. The police are investigating.—St. Joseph News-Press.

REPAIR OWN ROADS

When Macon (Mo.) Motorists Find Hole They Fix It.

CALL AID IF JOB IS TOO BIG.

Farmers and City Residents Unite In Keeping Highways Fit by Doing Work Themselves — Harmony Between the Two Brings Good Results.

Macon, Mo.—Macon county is full of patriotic citizens these days who carry hoes to do emergency work on the roads. The hoe, and sometimes a shovel also, is carried behind the motor car, and whenever the public spirited citizen runs into a mudhole or a place which he thinks he can improve with a little work, he gets out and does it. It is considered bad citizenship here to pass over a mudhole without trying to repair it.

Farmers used to smile when the town men talked about working on the roads, but since they have shown so much interest in the matter the farmers welcome them in the all important road work. Of course one man and one hoe can't do any great amount of work, but the man can start on the job, and if he finds it too big to tackle he can give the emergency signal with his motorcar horn, and there are plenty of farmers who will respond to his call and help do the job.

Dr. A. B. Miller, former president of the Macon Good Roads club, leader of "The Man With the Hoe" organization, said:

"The biggest thing the town man with the hoe does on the country road is to convince the farmer that he is really in earnest in this matter of good road work. When the farmer is satisfied that his city brother is going with him he will go to the limit. It means that before long we are going to have in this county such a sentiment as will vote almost unanimously for any proposition that tends to insure roads that will be good all year.

"We are approaching the era of hard surface roads. When we get everybody thinking and approving the road campaign it will be an easy matter to get the money necessary to carry on the work. It is no uncommon thing in driving over the country to see a preacher or a merchant on a highway alone tearing up weeds, shoveling dirt in a mudhole or cleaning out a ditch with a shovel. The work of these volunteer workers is bound to result in a perfect highway system. The fundamental is to get the people firmly decided on a thing and then they will go after it."

TOO SPEEDY FOR JERSEY.

Four Auto License Seekers Caught by Catchy Question.

Ardmore, Pa.—Four young men of this place are "sore." They are testers for an automobile manufacturing concern and they need drivers' licenses in New Jersey. So they went over to the state across the river to take the required examination as to their fitness to serve as chauffeurs on Jersey roads.

"If," one of the questions asked, "you were preceded by a machine going forty miles an hour and holding the middle of the road, on which side would you pass it?"

All four answered that they would hold to the rule of the road and pass on the left.

"In that case," the examiner told them, "we don't want you fellows driving automobiles in New Jersey. Inasmuch as the car in front is exceeding the speed limit by a good deal, you have no right to pass him on any side."

SUFFOCATED IN MUD.

Diver's Head Imbedded In the Ooze of a Pompton Stream.

Pompton, N. J.—His head imbedded in mud, Thomas Mahoney, twenty-two, of New York city, was suffocated under ten feet of water in the Pompton feeder here. Nearly two hours later friends brought the body to the surface.

Four chums saw the youth, an expert swimmer, dive from the bottom of an overturned rowboat. They thought he was swimming under water. Frightened when he failed to come up, they dove for his body, but could not lift it from the muddy bottom until help arrived.

SNAKE HAS INDIGESTION.

Natural That It Should Have, After Swallowing China Eggs.

Middletown, Conn.—When Mrs. Elmer Marvin of North Lyme went to the henhouse recently she saw a blacksnake coiled in a hen's nest. She didn't scream, but reached for the hoe and "went to it." Noticing some protuberances on the reptile, she applied the implement vigorously and, to her surprise, hoed out two china eggs which it had swallowed with half a dozen hen's eggs. The snake seemed stupid and to be suffering from a touch of indigestion.

RAILROAD WAIF FINDS A HOME

Conductor and Wife Adopt Baby Abandoned on Track.

Glassboro, N. J.—Recently a boy two weeks old was found abandoned on the tracks of the West Jersey and Seashore railroad. After a narrow escape from death he was brought here by the crew of a freight.

Arthur Shinn, a conductor on the line, announced he and his wife, who live in Chestnut Ridge, would adopt the child.

CRISIS OVER RAILWAY WAGES.

The conference committee of managers showed the good faith of the managements in taking this position by offering to submit both the proposals of the employees and the proposals of the railways to arbitration either by the interstate commerce commission or under the Newlands act. * * * There must be either (1) a backdown on the part of the train service employees or (2) arbitration by some impartial tribunal or (3) a strike. There is no other way out.—Railway Age-Gazette.

MEN HIGHEST PAID DEMAND MORE WAGES

Earnings of Train Employees Average $1,253 a Year.

PUBLIC MUST PAY THE BILL.

Proposed Increase In Wages Will Necessarily Result In Advance In Rates to Be Borne Not by Rich Capitalists, but by 100,000,000 People of United States.

The employees in railway train service, now taking a strike vote, are not only the highest paid workingmen in America, but they have profited disproportionately by recent advances in wages, declares Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age Gazette, in the July issue of the North American Review.

As a reply to the question whether the railways should grant the $100,000,000 increase demanded, Mr. Dunn gives the following table showing the average yearly wages of engineers, firemen, conductors and other trainmen and the average of all these classes combined:

	1914.	1906-1914. Per cent increase.	1898-1914. Per cent increase.
Engineers	$1,771.81	42.2	51.6
Firemen	1,037.47	46.8	60.2
Conductors	1,533.62	42.1	56.6
Other trainmen	1,023.21	48.8	73.0
All train service employees	1,253.37	44.3	57.9

In another table he gives the average yearly wages of the remaining 82 per cent of railway employees and also separately those of train dispatchers and telegraph operators, station agents and section foremen, showing the marked contrast between their earnings and those of the 18 per cent now seeking a further advance:

	1914.	1906-1914. Per cent increase.	1898-1914. Per cent increase.
All other employees	$686.68	34.6	40.3
Operators and dispatchers	904.42	31.9	42.6
Station agents	821.89	27.3	42.6
Section foremen	767.36	32.0	37.1

"The increase in the agerage wage of all train service employees," Mr. Dunn says, "in the eight years 1906-14 was 44 per cent. and in sixteen years 58 per cent. The increase in the average wage of the other 82 per cent. of employees in the same periods were 35 per cent. and 40 per cent. The average wage of the 309,000 train service employees in 1914 was $1,253; of the other 1,381,000 employees $687. The contrast between the wages of the train service employees and those of train dispatchers and telegraph operators, station agents and section foremen is especially striking. The working day of dispatchers and operators is limited to nine hours by federal law, but that of station agents and section foremen is ten hours, and they must hold themselves in readiness for duty at any time.

"The demands of the train service employees cannot be fairly granted unless proportionate concessions are also made to other railway employees, but the railways cannot grant the demands of the train service employees, much less a 25 per cent. advance in wages to all their employees, which would amount to $320,000,000 a year with their present freight and passenger rates.

"Most people are disposed to regard sympathetically all movements of workingmen to improve their condition on the assumption that any advantage labor may gain will be secured at the expense of capital. No such assumption can be made in this instance. The proposed increase in wages would necessarily result in advances in rates, and most or all of it would, therefore be borne, not by rich capitalists, but by the 100,000,000 people of the United States. Probably 80 per cent. of all the people of this country have smaller incomes than the men in railway train service, and it is impossible to [illegible] under present conditions, any justification for a large advance in the [illegible] of this relatively well paid class [illegible] at the expense of that much larger [illegible] of the public which is nowhere near as well off."

The public cannot afford a [illegible] road strike. It will be [illegible] disastrous to America than [illegible] wars with Mexico. — Chicago Tribune.

Members of the railroad brotherhoods should hesitate before going to strike.—New York World.

GERMAN WOMEN TO SCHOOL

Result of War is to Fill Universities With Feminine Element—Law Courses Preferred.

Special to the Democrat-Forum.

Berlin, Aug. 17.—One of the results of the present world war is the astonishing increase of women students in all German universities. Even the University of Muenster, which formerly did not encourage the feminists, now has 271 women among its students. Some of them are widows of soldiers.

Before the war the women only in rare cases studied anything but medicine, languages, philosophy, literature and art, but now they are taking up all kinds of scientific professions, even engineering, architecture and theology. The greatest attraction for them is law, however. In a few years Germany will have more women attorneys than any other country in the world.

WAR AND U. S. HORSES.

Kansas Expert Believes We Are Losing Advantage.

That an easy supremacy for the United States in the fine horse marts of the world will not result from the European war is the opinion of Edward N. Wentworth of the Kansas state agricultural college in an article in Profitable Farming Magazine, St. Joseph, Mo.

Mr. Wentworth says that the good horses of this country are too widely distributed to make anything like a general rapid development of the different breeds possible. And he says that Europe isn't going to be satisfied with scrubs, but will demand as good horses as ever.

With the spread of the idea of "a pure bred mare on every farm," the pure breds have become so scattered that mating with good stallions is not possible in many communities, he says.

WHY THEY MARRIED

TO WIN IN GAME, ONE MUST PLAY A POOR HAND WELL.

NOT ALL MEN TRAPPED

History Shows That Many Noted Husbands Were Happy—The New Creed for Wives.

The following letter was one of the prize winners in a contest i nSeptember Pictorial Review on "Who Gets the Most Out of Marriage:"

"Matrimony is the greatest game of life. Most of us, in our gamble for happiness, take a hand in it. Some few hold a royal flush—most of us do not—but, to win, one must play a poor hand well.

"History shows that not all men were trapped into matrimony. There was Solomon with his eight hundred wives. They could not all have had pretty faces— surely there was a scarcity of stunning gowns in those days—certainly not all of the eight hundred cooked him a square meal. Why, then, did he marry so many times? The eternal question—why?

Bluebeard was not badly bored, either, by his matrimonial problems. Whenever any of his wives displeased him, he simply cut off their heads and hung 'em in a row in the closet. Why worry over a trifling domestic dispute— there were more wives where those came from and a man must not be annoyed by his womenfolk.

"Brigham Young, too, solved this question very nicely. He didn't marry one wife and expect her to combine all the virtues of womankind, with all the attractions and accomplishments. He married one, presumably for her pretty face—another, possibly for her pretty clothes—possibly a third because she could broil a beefsteak so well that Brigham could stand it to dine with her several nights a week. No, Brigham was not trapped. Possibly some of his Mormon wives could have told a different tale, but Brigham married for the same old reasons.

"Ask any woman who has borne a child for a man she loves who pays the highest price in the matrimonial game. If some one man could have twins just once, the masculine viewpoint of the world would be changed—war topics would become secondary in interest—the papers would be filled with the tale of his greatness. But things don't happen that way, thanks to Eve, and we women can only work while men (some of them) stand by for twilight sleep and birth-control, and sneer.

"Some men would like to have their wives live by a new creed, based on the following ten commandments:

"Remember the wedding anniversary,to keep it—some way.

"Thou shalt not forget that the faith cure is the only cure for jealousy.

"Thou shalt not nag; Reno is not so far away and the path thereto is well trodden.

"Thou shalt not ask him, when he gets home late at nights, any whys or wherefores; you'll have all you can do to believe what he tells voluntarily.

"Thou shalt go, if thou wilt, to the florist, the jeweler, the modiste, for thy love, but not to the devil.

"Thou shalt play the game of love as the game of cards; it is not the kind of a hand you hold, but the way you play it, that counts.

"Thou shalt not lose thy sense of humor when thou fallest in love—thou wilt need it later on.

"Thou shalt remember that love is no century plant but is like unto the fragile poppy in the wheat.

"Thou shalt not forget that matrimony is the next longest thing to being dead.

"Thou shalt not forget the original new commandment—to love one another."

Mrs. Mary McKee, who lives in the Harmony district, left today for Dakota, where she will spend the winter with her sons, Joseph and Guilford McKee.

LAMM WINS FIRST FALL.

Republican Nominee Has Jefferson City Named as Convention Place in Face of Dickey's Protest.

Judge Henry Lamm, Republican nominee for governor, appears to be a much bigger man in the councils of his party than Walter S. Dickey, Republican nominee for United States senator. This was the conclusion reached by Republican leaders here when they learned that Chairman Huckreide of the Republican state committee had reversed himself in the matter of holding the state convention of his party in Kansas City, August 22, and has now named Jefferson City as the place for the meeting. It is said that Mr. Dickey tried to induce the chairman to name Kansas City.

When Judge Lamm learned of this, as the story goes, he became "riled," and said that the convention ought to be in Jefferson City at all events. He gave the chairman such a strong talking to that the latter has changed the meeting place and will send out official notices to this effect tomorrow. Just why Judge Lamm did not want the convention held in Kansas City is not in evidence, although it is supposed that he does not want the Dickey influences to make the state platform, and thought that the latter would have an advantage if the meeting was held in the Kawtown. The law specifically provides that the state committee, not the chairman of the state committee, shall name the place for holding these meetings.

KANSAS CITY STOCK MARKETS.

Kansas City Stock Yards, Aug. 15.—The mean close of the cattle market last week discouraged loading for today, and Kansas shippers managed to hold off a while longer. Rains today helped the Kansas situation. Texas and Oklahoma turned loose pretty freely, and the total run today is 21,000 head. Weighty beef steers sold 10 to 15c higher, including grass steers, stockers sold higher and there was some call for feeders; otherwise it was a steady market.

Beef steers—Well finished Missouri steers brought $10.25 today for heavy weights, and yearlings sold up to $10.15. Weighty grass cattle sold stronger, best good Kansas steers ranging from $8.00 to $8.50, medium kinds $7.25 to $7.75, light Kansas and Oklahoma steers at $6.25 to $6.65. Thirty-three cars quarantines came in, and sold about steady, nothing very choice included, steers 900 to 1,050 pounds at $6.40 to $7.10, light steers around $6.00, canner steers, $5.50. Butcher grades sold about steady, most of the cows $5.25 to $6.25, veals $9.50 to $11.00.

Stockers and feeders—Iowa and Illinois got good rains last week, and a great many buyers came in this morning from those states. Demand for stockers was good at $6.25 to $7.00, and there was a better demand for feeders than heretofore, heavy feeders selling up to $8.45, grass steers weighing 1,080 pounds to feeder buyers around $7.50. Illinois has considerable old corn, and recent rains have made holders willing to sell it to cattle feeders, hence a stronger demand for feeding steers.

Hogs—Thursday was the high day on hogs, tops reaching $10.37½, and from that point the market has dropped to $10.10 for tops today, light hogs leading, medium weights $10.05, heavies $9.95, bulk of sales $9.75 to $10.05. Extraordinary demand from bacon curers and fresh meat handlers, added to a tendency of the export trade to make further increases, account for the recent high markets, and the only thing that keeps prices from staying up or climbing higher is that packers are able to conceal at least a portion of their needs. The situation is very strong.

Sheep and lambs—Killers issued orders last week that mutton cost must be reduced, and prices are off 40 to 60 cents on killing grades. Choice Utah lambs sold at $10.90 today, an outside price, and about 30 cents above other river markets. Plain 60-pound Arizonas brought $10.25. Only a few natives were here, around $10.00. Feeders and breeders were strong, Arizona feeding lambs at $9.50, Arizona breeding ewes weighing 90 pounds at $9.35, the latter a record price. Receipts are 9,000 today, and the supply is running below normal constantly.
